

THE ASSASSINATION OF FRED HAMPTON

How the FBI and Chicago Police Murdered a Black Panther

Fred Hampton's lawyer (author of this critically-acclaimed new book) and brother present a re-enactment of the raid and place Hampton's life and death in the context of police violence, racism and the law.

Fred Hampton came from Chicago's west side to become a nationally known civil rights figure by age 21, as a charismatic leader of the Black Panther Party (BPP), its Free Breakfast Program and People's Clinic. He negotiated an agreement between Chicago's most powerful street gangs, emphasizing that racial and ethnic conflict would only keep their members entrenched in poverty, and built an alliance with anti-war white student progressives. In 1969, the FBI was ordered to "eradicate [the BPP's] 'serve the people programs'" and a few months after he founded the original "rainbow coalition," Fred Hampton was killed in his bed by Chicago police.

Civil rights attorney Jeffrey Haas was a co-founder of the People's Law Office in Chicago which represented the BPP, SDS, the Young Lords and anti-Vietnam war protestors since the 1960s. He was part of a team which successfully prosecuted the Cook County Sheriff's office for violating the rights of four men who wrongfully spent 18 years on death row, resulting in one of the largest civil rights settlements in U.S. history ($36 million). This and related work played a major role in convincing the governor to commute the sentences of everyone on Illinois' death row in 2003.

Also speaking will be Bill Hampton, Fred's older brother. Bill Hampton graduated from Roosevelt Univ. in Chicago in 1972, and is currently a director of the Midwest Voters Alliance and President of the Fred Hampton Scholarship Fund.

Haas' book exposes the murder of Fred Hampton in his bed, as part of the FBI's Cointelpro Program against the Black Liberation movement. This is the result of 13 years of litigation which has established the best documentation of a domestic U.S. Government assassination. For more information, see www.Hamptonbook.com and www.peopleslawoffice.com.

"In 1969 our United States veered close to becoming a police state with planned and coordinated attacks against 'black militants' by local enforcement and federal agencies... This is an extremely important book. —Fmr. U.S. Atty. General, Ramsey Clark

Fred Hampton speaking in Chicago in 1969.

Chicago police smiling as they remove the body of Fred Hampton from his apartment following his assassination. Photos by Paul Sequeira

Attorneys Jeff Haas (left) and Flint Taylor outside the Panther Headquarters in Aug. '78.

Thursday, February 18, 2010, 7pm
Wisconsin Room, UWM Union, 2200 E. Kenwood Blvd.
Free & open to the public

There will also be a presentation at Noon at Marquette Law School's Eisenberg Hall, 3rd floor, 1103 W. Wisconsin Ave., and a reception at 4:30pm at the Milw. NAACP office, 2745 N. Dr. Martin Luther King Drive

Sponsored by: UWM Dept. of Africology, Peace Action Wisconsin, UWM Black Cultural Center, UWM Black Pre-Law Society; UWM Union Sociocultural Programming, Milw. Chapter of the Nat'l Lawyers Guild, MULS NLG Chapter, Milw. Students for a Democratic Society, NAACP Milw. Branch, and Progressive Students of Milwaukee. For more info contact nlgmilw@igc.org or (414) 273-1040, ext. 12.